Dràma Na h-Alba, Scotland's International Theatre Arts Festival and Forum will take place in venues in and around Inverness between the 18th and 22nd October 2007. It is about celebrating the best of today's theatre in the Highlands and Islands; offering a forum to learn, create and debate. DNA2007 is the launch event for what will become a biennial festival & forum. It aims: to provide an environment for Scotland's theatre community to learn, debate, innovate and create ~ to create opportunities for the involvement of the wider communities, including young people and children, and ~ to celebrate, share and promote the highest quality theatre and build links between the Highlands and Islands and national and international practitioners.
